DEATH

Comes To Robert Harter In Far Away Japan

Former Mansfield Man Dies Of Apoplexy

(Mansfield News.) Information reached Mansfield Sunday afternoon to the effect that Robert Harter, son of Mrs. M. D. Harter, died suddenly in Kobe, Japan, on Feb. 2. Mr. Harter has been in Japan for the past twelve years. It is stated that Mr. Harter was found lying in an unconscious condition in his room in the hotel by a man by the name of Harris. Mr. Harter was foreign agent for the Manufacturers' Insurance Co. of Canada and Mr. Harter was employed by the same company. When Mr. Harter discovered Mr. Harter unconscious the hotel physician was called but he died within a few hours without recovering consciousness. The doctor pronounced death due to apoplexy. It is stated that Mr. Harter took charge of the body and had Mr. Harter's effects turned over to the American consul at Kobe where they will be claimed by relatives. In Japan they have no cemeteries but cremate the dead. Mr. Harter arranged to have the remains cremated and the ashes preserved at the crematory. The gentlemen also wrote letters to Mrs. Harter in this city apprising her of the death of her son but as she was away from home she did not receive them. The letters were forwarded to Mrs. Harter at Havana but as she was not there they were sent back to Mansfield. Then the letters were sent to Nassau in the Bahama Islands but they missed her there also. The letters came back and were finally delivered to Isaac Harter who resides at Harborton. The letters conveying information of the death were then forwarded to Mrs. Harter and reached her at Miami, Florida. Robert Harter was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael D. Harter and had he survived until April 10 he would have been 36 years old. No further particulars have been received.

THE EASTER LILY

THE lily is regarded as a saint among flowers, and the reason lilies are so largely used in the decoration of churches is not only because they are the most perfect of floral types, but because of their symbolic meaning.

One beautiful old belief about the lily relates that the candidates for the Virginia Mary's land after having sought the Lord's blessing each left his own staff in the temple in the evening. The next morning the dry rod of Joseph was found green and blossomed with lily flowers.

Another pretty legend is that Mary on her way to the temple plucked a lily, and upon pressing it to her breast it became white. "Lily of the Virgin," "Madonna flower" and several other mystical names were given to the lily and have reference to this legend.

A German belief points to the Harz mountains as the birthplace of the white lily. A beautiful girl named Alice was carried off by a wicked lord. Just as he reached his castle the guardian spirit of the place wrested the girl from his arms. On the place touched by the feet of this innocent maid sprang the white lily. This story is believed by the peasants of the Harz mountains, and every year hundreds of them make a pilgrimage to the castle to behold the dazzling beauty of the flower that flourishes there.

Another German legend runs this way and relates to the "red" lily: Once the garden of Gethsemane was full of flowers of all kinds and among them none so lovely as the splendid lily, with her clustering bells proudly upright. It was evening, and the Lord came to walk in his garden. As he passed along each flower bowed before him, but when he came to the lily her haughty head remained erect, defiant in her conscious beauty. The Lord paused and looked at her for a second. She braved the mild eye of reproof, then slowly bent her head, while blushes swept over her. Still the Lord's gaze rested on her. Lower sank her head, deeper burned her crimson, then tear after tear welled up in her lily cups. At this the Lord passed on. When morning came all the flowers lifted their heads—all but the lily, that once was white queen among them. Her head remained bowed in shame. To this day she blushes over her sin of vanity, and the clear crystal tears of repentance still sway in the cups of the flower that refused to bend before the Lord.

An Easter Miracle.

It was in the year 1799, when the armies of Napoleon were passing over the continent of Europe and conquering all that came in their way.

It was Easter morning, and the sun shone brightly on Feldkirch, a little town situated on the Ill river, just within the borders of Austria. The Ill flows into the Rhine.

Quite early on this morning there suddenly appeared on the heights above the town to the west the glittering weapons of 18,000 French soldiers, the division under the command of General Massena.

There was a hasty assembling of the town council, and it was decided that a deputation be sent to Massena with the keys of the town and a petition for mercy.

In the midst of all the confusion of the hurrying to and fro and the anxious consultation the old dean of the church stood up serene as was the morning, with no thought of fear in his brave Christian heart.

"It is Easter day," he said. "We have been reckoning on our own strength, and it is but weakness. Let us ring the bells and have service as usual. We will leave our troubles in the hands of the Higher Power."

Soon from all the church spires of Feldkirch the bells rang out joyously. The streets became thronged with worshippers on their way to church. Loud and more triumphant pealed the bells as they rang out the glad message, and the hills, putting on their new green, echoed back: "Christ is risen. He is risen from the dead."

The French army heard the sounds of rejoicing, and Massena concluded there could be but one reason for it. He was sure that the Austrian army had arrived in the night.

He ordered his men to break up camp, and almost before the bells had ceased ringing—long before Easter services were over—the French army was in orderly retreat.

By noon not a tent, not a soldier, not a glittering bayonet, was to be seen on the heights above Feldkirch.—Boston Globe.

An Easter Sermon.

"I'm glad that Easter-Sunday's here," said Mrs. Henry Gray. "My bonnet new and other gear I'll wear to church today. A vein of glory will pervade. My hymn of praise and prayer, For when my toilet is displayed How Mrs. Biles will stare!"

"I hate that horrid Mrs. Brown, With all her quorks and amies. Of all the women in the town, She aces the coarsest styles. She bought her bonnet 'way last spring And wears it now for new. And as for that old Thompson thing, I vow I hate her too!"

"I hear Miss Jones, the cross-eyed cat, Has bought a new pecky hat And terra cotta Paris hat To wear to church today. And Helen White has got a dress They say is just divine. Come, Mr. Gray, and do you guess It's half as sweet as mine?"

"There go those awful Billings girls. They paint and powder too. They pad and wear cheap bangs and curls. They do—I know they do! You needn't laugh, I boldly say And stake my honor on it—I'll paralyze them all today With my new dress and bonnet!" —Eugene Field.

NEEDLE

Was Discovered In The Brain Of A Man

Four years ago Frank Everett, former Bucyrus man, shot and killed a man named Malone, master mechanic of a railroad shop at Alina, near Reno, Nevada. He was convicted of murder and has served several years of life sentence in the State penitentiary at Carson City, Nev.

The defense offered was that Everett was temporarily insane, and he was a victim of epileptic attacks. His wife, brothers and sisters have worked incessantly for his removal from the state prison to an asylum for treatment.

Everett himself, racked and tortured by epileptic spasms in his prison cell, has insisted frequently that he had a needle in his body. Even his own sister believed this the sign of a wandering mind.

A week ago prison surgeons discovered a rusted needle, imbedded in the base of the skull and piercing Everett's brain. He has been removed to a hospital where an operation will be performed with the hope of restoring his normal condition. The finding of the needle may mean Everett's pardon and the case will rank as one of the most remarkable in medical and criminal history in America. Mrs. J. N. Shifley, who returned from the west several weeks ago, is a sister of the imprisoned man.—Bucyrus Telegraph.

WHY BUNNIES BRING THE EASTER EGGS

There was once a naughty bunny who was always being funny. And kept the land about him in a constant state of awe. His father and his mother These pranks would try to cover To keep him out of prison and the clutches of the law.

On one morning bright and early, When the cops were getting surly, He started to discover what sad mischief he could do. Soon he saw a blackbird's nest, And he could not eat or rest Until he'd dyed the eggs with a lovely dark sea blue.

He was so pleased at his joking That he said, "I'll round up poiting And ask my little bunny friends to help me gather more." So they stole birds' eggs a galore And put them by, in store.

Then a burly bunny "copper" Said he'd quickly put a stopper To such dire depredations as were never heard before. So, much rather than get caught, These bold robbers straightway sought A man who took the eggs to town and sold them in a store.

Now, this raised an awful clatter, And the cops began to chatter. And said to steal such pretty eggs a great and mighty sin. But the bandits made it seem There was money in the scheme, So for wealth and sordid profit all rabbits now join in.

So all this explains the habit Why eggs are brought by a rabbit And given little boys and girls on Easter every year. And the lesson seems to shew It was all a case of "dough." Yet eggs and little bunnies white have found their proper sphere.

A bottle of fine extract or cologne.

FIRST COLORED EGGS.

How and Where This Charming Custom Originated.

During the crusades a lady living in a castle along the line of march received some chickens from a man returning from the east. They were a great curiosity and highly prized by their gentle owner.

The men of her family were crusaders, and their absence was taken advantage of by some lawless neighbors, who commanded her to abandon her home and seek refuge in the Black forest. There she received protection and kind treatment and lived several years among very poor peasants. She had taken her chickens with her and took great pleasure in giving their eggs to her poor neighbors.

She was particularly interested in the children and devoted considerable time to their instruction. She made a rule to give a present to each child at Easter, but each year she had fewer possessions.

This necessity suggested to her the novel idea of decorating some eggs with bright colors, and to make them still more interesting she concealed them among the dry leaves in the forest. The children were sent to hunt them and were greatly astonished and delighted to find the colored eggs.

ANNA'S EASTER DREAM

BY LOUISE COOPER

When little Anna went to sleep Upon the eve of Easter day She dreamed of candied eggs a heap And frisky, brisky lambs at play. Plump Dumpty Dumpty, with a bow, Stood smiling on the counterpane, And Ducky Daddies, wondering how, Was at the foot just to explain. Three baby ducks in noisy play, Who never thought to pardon beg, Cried "Quack, quack, quack, for Easter day!" And then tobogganned down an egg. A rooster and a hen on nest Exclaimed, "Please put us in the rhyme, for we are doing our level best In working up the Easter time!" Five bunnies, each with eyes of pink And ears so long they flapped like wings, Said, "After all, do you not think That we are cunning little things?" Two lambs, like that which Mary had, That frolicked on all lambs will do, Said, "We are not considered bad, And, don't forget, we're little too." Five sparrows, proud of their wee size— They never grow too broad or tall— Chirped, "We should surely win a prize, for we are littlest of them all." Two tiny men from Cithium, With good strong arm and sturdy leg, Held steady as a block of gum. A large and glowing rainbow egg; There, standing on it like a queen, With rosy lips and roguish eye, In pink and gold and bronze and green, The girly, curly butterfly.

A big bowl of Quaker Oats the best dish you in serve.
